

FROSTBITES SUMMER BARBECUE – 19TH JUNE 2009

Around 60 Frostbites and friends gathered at the clubhouse on a not so warm and sunny Midsummers evening to enjoy a barbecue and entertainment by a Sixties Band that had been superbly organised by John and Sue Gilbert.

On arrival guests were greeted by colourful bunting hanging from the boatsheds and clubhouse, the smell of several barbecues warming up and the sound of the band tuning up. Inside the clubhouse a delicious spread of salads was laid out on a table near the kitchen and the smell of potato wedges wafted out from the kitchen.

Penny was notably absent from the bar as she had a prior engagement, but Ray Johnston ably stood in for her and business was so brisk that it wasn't long before John Gilbert had to slip off to Sainsburys to get some more tins of beer!

Meanwhile an orderly queue of guests formed at the barbecues holding out plates of meat to be cooked and a small team of volunteers bravely rose to the challenge, in spite of a fairly strong breeze blowing smoke back all over them to the point where they must have had sympathy with the kippers that are part of the traditional fare for Rum Punch Sunday!!!
